I. BASIC FORMAT OF A PAPER OR THESIS

B. Pagination

Number pages in the center of the bottom of the page, beginning with the first page of the text. Do not number the title page.

C. Margins

One-inch margins at top, bottom, and sides.

D. Text Formatting

- Format the main text in Times New Roman, 12-point font, left aligned.
- Italics may be used to identify key terms on their first mention.
- Either italics or quotation marks (but not both) may be used to refer to words as words (e.g., The term "grief" evokes feelings of sadness. Should "bereavement" be used instead?).
- Italics may be used to emphasize words or phrases, but authors should be careful not to overuse italics, lest the italics lose their power.
- Italics should be used for foreign words or phrases that are unfamiliar to readers. If the terms are used frequently in a text, they should be italicized only on their first mention. If they occur in the same context as foreign terms that are familiar to readers, maintain consistency by either italicizing both terms or setting them both in roman (not italics).

E. Spacing and Indentation

- Double-space the main text. Do not skip additional lines between paragraphs. Check the paragraph settings in Word. Set the Before and After spacing to 0 pt.
- Single-space itemized lists and indented block quotations.
- The first line of every paragraph, even if under a subheading, should be indented .5 inches from the left margin. Subsequent lines should be flush with the left margin.

F. Abbreviations

See Turabian, Manual, §24, pp. 330-345. (Section 24.6.1-3, on biblical abbreviations, does not apply; on this topic, see “Biblical Citations” in section A on pages 18-19 of the Guidelines).

- “Cf.” and “see”: Writers should take care not to misuse “cf.,” which means confer or compare. It must be distinguished from “see.” Both are placed in Roman typeface and capitalized only when they begin a footnote or sentence. Use “cf.” to point readers to a source that provides an idea that can be compared or contrasted to the one that was presented. Use “see” to point readers to a source that illustrates or explains the idea that was presented.
- Ibid.: Because the use of ibid. can cause confusion when references are moved in the editing process, do not use the abbreviation ibid. Rather, use the appropriate form for abbreviated subsequent references provided in the sample citations in the Guidelines.

G. Numbers

See Turabian, Manual, §23, pp. 317-329. Note, however, that inclusive numbers should not be abbreviated (therefore, Table 23.2 in Turabian, Manual, p. 325, does not apply).

H. Spelling and Punctuation

See Turabian, Manual, §§20-21, pp. 281-306. See also chapters 6 and 7 of The Chicago Manual of Style (17th ed.).

Use an apostrophe for the following common possessives: Jesus’s, Moses’s, Aquinas’s. Information on other possessives may be found in sections 7.16-7.29 of The Chicago Manual of Style (17th ed.).

I. Capitalization / Upper and Lower Case

I.1. Biblical books, names, and terms

Capitalize “Bible” and “Scripture,” but DO NOT capitalize their respective adjectives, “scriptural” and “biblical.”

Capitalize titles of biblical books (e.g., Genesis, 1 Kings), divisions of the Bible (e.g., Pentateuch, Synoptic Gospels), and sections or parts within books (e.g., Passion Narrative, Gradual Psalms, Penitential Psalms).

Always capitalize “Gospel” when the reference is to one of the four canonical Gospels, even when the Gospel in question is specified, as with “Mark’s Gospel.”

When referring to New Testament letters, use capitals. Examples:

Epistle / Letter to the Romans

Second Corinthians

These rules admit of two exceptions:

1. The designations “book” (e.g., book of Job) and “parable” (e.g., parable of the talents) are not capitalized.
2. References to genres of biblical literature or to the psalms in general (as opposed to the book of Psalms) should not be capitalized. Examples include: “these psalms are powerful witnesses to . . .”; “Questions were raised to the Consilium concerning how many psalms should be in the Office”; “the epistles of the New Testament”; “the apocryphal gospel of Peter.”

I.2. Theological, liturgical, and devotional terms

In general, it is not necessary to capitalize the designation of liturgical books. Examples:

- Roman missal
- Roman ritual
- Gelasian sacramentary
- pontifical of Mainz

Capitalize theological appellations. Examples: Messiah, Son of God, Third Person of the Trinity, Mediatrix.

Do not capitalize pronouns (e.g., he, him, his, himself) that refer to God or Jesus.

Terms denoting biblical and other religious events and religious concepts of major theological importance may be capitalized or not, depending upon the discretion of the author and provided consistency is achieved. Examples:

- Creation / creation
- Day of Judgment / day of judgment
- Nativity of Christ / nativity of Christ
- the Exodus / the exodus

All references to feasts, solemnities, memorials, etc. of the Church, however, must be capitalized even when they are also biblical events. Examples:

- Baptism of the Lord
- Nativity of Mary

Capitalize names or titles referring to the eucharistic rite or the sacrament itself. Examples:

- Mass
- High Mass

- Divine Liturgy
- Holy Communion
- Liturgy of the Lord's Supper
- Precious Blood
- Eucharist
- Body and Blood of the Lord
- Sacred Species

DO NOT capitalize adjectives referring to the sacrament, such as “eucharistic.”

Non-eucharistic religious services and sacraments are not capitalized. Examples include prime, terce, morning prayer, baptism, confirmation, marriage, holy orders, sacraments, seder, bar mitzvah.

Religious objects are lowercase. Examples include holy water, phylacteries, rosary, sanctuary, stations of the cross, relic of the true cross.

“Church” should be capitalized whenever the author is referring to the Catholic Church in general. However, when a particular edifice is in question, “church” should be written with lowercase.

I.3. Latin titles

For all Latin writings (ancient, medieval, modern, and contemporary), place all words in italics and capitalize only the first word of the title, proper names, adjectives derived from proper names, and words indicating the Godhead. Examples:

- Missale Romanum
- Rituale Romanum
- De baptismo
- De bello Gallico
- De glorificatione Trinitatis
- De civitate Dei
- Summa contra gentiles
- Summa theologiae
- Biblia Hebraica
- Vetus testamentum
- Sacrosanctum concilium
- Liturgiam authenticam
- Ecclesia de Eucharistia
- Dies Domini

In abbreviations, however, all nouns, verbs, and adjectives in the title are uppercase and placed in Roman rather than italic. Thus Lumen gentium should be abbreviated LG; Presbyterorum ordinis, PO; Musicam sacram, MusSacr. In such instances the title should be written in full in the first reference, with the abbreviation to be used subsequently placed in brackets immediately following the title and indicated with “henceforth:” as follows: Sacrosanctum concilium [henceforth: SC], 14.

I.4. Modern language titles

In Romance language titles, capitalize only the initial word of the title and subtitle, along with proper nouns.

In German titles, capitalize the initial word of the title and all nouns.

For all other modern languages, consult the current edition of the Chicago Manual of Style.

J. Quotations

See Turabian, Manual, §25, pp. 346-357.

J.1 Block quotations

Use block quotations whenever a quoted text runs longer than three lines of the body of the paper. Block quotations are in Times New Roman, 12 point font, indented .5 inches from the left margin and from the right margin, and are single spaced. (This instruction supersedes any contrary specifications in Turabian, Manual, §25.2.2, p. 349). Do not enclose block quotations in quotation marks.

J.2 Quotes within quotes

The source of a quote within a quote will appear only in the footnote (and not in the bibliography), after the source within which it is quoted.

K. Foreign Words Translated to English

When providing an English translation in the main text of a paper, place the English translation in parentheses or quotation marks after the foreign word, phrase, or title (e.g., The term ecclesia domestica, “domestic church,” signifies a unique reality for Christian families. The term porneia (fornication, incest, adultery) is key to understanding the passage.).

Hyperlinks should be removed from the text in all cases where they appear as links (blue and underlined). Remove the hyperlink by right-clicking and selecting “remove hyperlink.” Please note that hyperlinks cannot be removed from text that is written directly on platforms like Populi or email. Hyperlinks can, however, be removed in papers that are saved as files uploaded to these platforms (e.g., papers written in Microsoft Word and saved as .docx or pdf).

M. Notes

Footnotes rather than parenthetical citations or endnotes are to be used, with the exception of biblical references. Identifying the source of an idea at the beginning of a sentence or paragraph (e.g., “According to...”) does not eliminate the need for a footnote.

N. Bibliography

A full bibliography (not annotated) of all sources consulted or cited should be placed at the end of the paper.

O. Subheadings

If the paper includes subheadings, they should be in Times New Roman, 12 point font, left aligned, and placed in bold. They do not need to begin on a new page. Insert an extra space above the subheading so the new section stands out when skimming the document. Press the Return or Enter key once to insert that extra space above the subheading.

II. FOOTNOTES AND BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Holy Apostles College & Seminary requires both page-by-page footnotes (rather than endnotes or parenthetical citations) within the work and a bibliography at the end of the work.

A. General Footnote Formatting

Indentation, font, spacing: Footnotes must be indented .2 inches on the first line of each citation, and subsequent lines should be flushed to the left margin. Footnotes must be in 11 point, Times New Roman font and single-spaced. Do not skip any lines between footnotes. Each footnote must end with a period or full stop.

First footnote: When citing a work in a footnote for the first time, provide a full citation containing all bibliographical information.

Subsequent footnotes (i.e., abbreviated subsequent references): In subsequent footnotes, include the author's last name, a shortened version of the title (i.e., an abbreviated title), and the page number(s), all separated by commas and ending with a period. Abbreviated titles typically do not include articles (i.e., "the," "a," "an") at the beginning of the title.

Page numbers: Notes include the page number(s) of only those pages on which the information cited is found. All numbers must be written out completely (e.g., use 371-379 rather than 371-79).

Placement of note numbers: Place note numbers at the end of a sentence or clause. Numbers immediately follow all punctuation (except for dashes), with no space between the punctuation and the number.

Citations plus commentary: Footnotes that contain both a source and commentary should place the source first and separate it from the commentary with a period (e.g., Karol Wojtyła, Person and Community: Selected Essays, trans. Theresa Sandok (New York: Lang, 1993), 237. Wojtyła first views participation as a property of the person.).

Multiple citations in one footnote: When a footnote contains more than one source citation, separate the citations with a semicolon (e.g., Marshall McLuhan, Understanding Media: The Extensions of Man (Cambridge, MA: MIT Press, 1997), 16; Teresa of Avila, Interior Castle, trans. E. Allison Peers (New York: Image, 1961), 89.).

B. General Bibliography Formatting

Headings: Headings (i.e., "Bibliography," "Primary Sources," "Secondary Sources") should be in bold, Times New Roman, 12 point font, left aligned.

Indentation, font, spacing: Begin each citation flush with the left-hand margin, and indent subsequent lines one tab space (this is called "hanging" indentation). Single-space within each entry (with 0 pt Before and After). Skip one line between entries. Use Times New Roman, 12 point font, left aligned.

Alphabetizing citations: Sources should be listed in alphabetical order by the last name of the author or editor, which is therefore placed before the first name and separated from it by a comma. If no author or editor is given, the entry begins with the title; if the title begins with an article (i.e., the, a, an), ignore the article, and alphabetize by the second word in the title, but keep the article in the title.

C. Citations in Footnotes and Bibliographies

C.1 Basic Order of Elements for Books

Closely following The Chicago Manual of Style, Holy Apostles uses the following order of elements for book citations:

- (1) Full name of author(s) or editor as author or corporate/institutional author
- (2) Title and subtitle
- (3) Editor or compiler
- (4) Translator
- (5) Edition (only if not the first edition)
- (6) Volume information: total number of volumes of an entire multivolume work cited, or the volume number and title of an individual volume of a multivolume work
- (7) Series information: title, number, editor, and translator
- (8) Facts of publication: city, publisher, and date
- (9) Page information (or chapter number and section title for e-readers) for footnotes
- (10) For electronic sources: root URL, DOI [digital object identifier], or medium (e.g., Kindle)

C.2 Titles, Names, Editions, and Publication Information

C.2.a. Author names

Full names: When available, use the author's full first name. Databases often give only initials, but students can search for the author's full name online, on the book cover, and on the title page inside the book.

Use initials, however, for authors who prefer initials. Use a space between initials (e.g., C. S. Lewis, T. S. Eliot) unless the initials are used alone (e.g., JFK).

Particles: Words such as "Van," "Von," and "De" should be treated as part of an author's last name. In bibliographies, place these words at the beginning of an entry and capitalize them (e.g., Von Hildebrand, Dietrich. Marriage: The Mystery of Faithful Love. Manchester, NH: Sophia Institute, 1991.).

Titles and affiliations: Do not include titles such as “Dr.,” “Rev.,” “King,” “Saint,” or “St.” for citations unless needed to avoid ambiguity (e.g., Include “St.” for St. Gertrude since this author has no last name, and readers would not know who “Gertrude” is if they saw the name in a citation. Using “St. Gertrude” will clarify who the author is for readers.). Do not include affiliations such as “O.P.” (Order of Preachers). “Pope” and “Cardinal” may remain if they are maintained in all entries.

Suffixes: In bibliographies, place the suffix after the first name or middle initial, and use a comma to separate the first name (or middle initial) from the suffix (e.g., Murphy, William F., Jr. “Revisiting Contraception: An Integrated Approach in Light of the Renewal of Thomistic Virtue Ethics.” Theological Studies 72, no. 4 (2011): 812-847.).

In footnotes, place the suffix after the last name. Do not use a comma to separate the last name and suffix (e.g., William F. Murphy Jr., “Revisiting Contraception: An Integrated Approach in Light of the Renewal of Thomistic Virtue Ethics,” Theological Studies 72, no. 4 (2011), 813.).

C.2.b. Titles and subtitles

Capitalization for English titles: Capitalize all substantive words including nouns, adverbs, adjectives, and verbs, as well as the first word in the title and any word that immediately follows a colon. Do not capitalize conjunctions, prepositions, or articles.

Always adjust capitalization in titles (regardless of how titles appear in databases or on book covers) to follow HACS formatting.

Capitalization for Latin titles: Capitalize the first word in a Title, proper nouns, and words indicating the Divinity or a Person of the Trinity.

Two subtitles: When a title contains two subtitles, both subtitles begin with a capital letter. Use a colon before the first subtitle and a semicolon before the second subtitle (e.g., Kosicki, George. Faustina: A Saint for Our Times; A Personal Look at Her Life, Spirituality and Legacy. San Francisco: Ignatius, 2010.).

When the Main Title Ends with a Question Mark:

No colon is needed after the main title when it ends with a question mark (e.g., Stackle, Erin. “What Does St. Thomas Say Is the Matter in Aristotle’s ‘Health’? A Case Study of the Commentary Tradition.” Philosophy & Theology 30, no. 1 (2018): 33-58.).

Titles, terms, and phrases that occur within titles: Place double quotation marks around titles that occur within an italicized title, regardless of whether the inner title would normally receive quotation marks or italics (e.g., Wildes, Kevin William, and Mitchell C. Alan, eds. Choosing Life:

A Dialogue on “Evangelium vitae.” Washington, DC: Georgetown University Press, 1997.).

In essay and article titles, italicize titles that would normally be italicized (e.g., Jackson, B. Darrell. “The Theory of Signs in St. Augustine’s De doctrina Christiana.” In Augustine: A Collection of Critical Essays, ed. R.A. Markus, 92-147. Garden City, NY: Anchor, 1972.).

In essay and article titles, place single quotation marks around titles, terms, or phrases that would normally receive double quotation marks (e.g., Heaney-Hunter, Joann. “‘Active Faith’ in Christian Marriage.” Pastoral Psychology 45, no. 4 (1997): 261-275).

Inner titles should follow the capitalization rules of their own language (e.g., Sweeney, Michael. “The Medievalism of Fides et ratio.” In The Two Wings of Catholic Thought: Essays on Fides et ratio, ed. David Foster and Joseph Koterski, 163-176. Washington, DC: Catholic University of America, 2002.).

An initial “the”: In articles, essays, and books, retain “the” at the beginning of the title (e.g., Blankenhorn, Bernhard. The Mystery of Union with God: Dionysian Mysticism in Albert the Great and Thomas Aquinas. Washington, DC: Catholic University of America, 2015.).

In journal names, omit an initial “the” (e.g., Strobel, Kyle. “In Your Light They Shall See Light: A Theological Prolegomena for Contemplation.” Journal of Spiritual Formation & Soul Care 7, no. 1 (2014): 85-106.).

Foreign terms: Italicize foreign terms that occur within titles surrounded by quotation marks (e.g., Monson, Paul G. “Sub signis visibilibus: Visual Theology in Trent’s Decrees on the Eucharist.” Logos: A Journal of Catholic Thought & Culture 15, no 4. (2012): 145-158.).

Foreign terms that occur within an italicized title should be set in roman (remove the italics from the foreign term and do not place quotation marks around it) (e.g., Peters, Danielle M. Ecce educatrix tua: The Role of the Blessed Virgin Mary for a Pedagogy of Holiness in the Thought of John Paul II and Father Joseph Kentenich. Lanham, MD: University Press of America, 2010.).

C.2.c. Editions

Editions to specify: Specify numerical editions (e.g., 2nd ed., 9th ed.).

Do not specify first editions.

Do not specify language editions (e.g., English ed., French ed.) or editions which do not change the text but are marketing or promotional tactics (e.g., Twenty-fifth Anniversary ed.).

Do not specify “revised edition” or “rev. ed.” if a numerical edition is specified.

Numerals: Use numerals rather than spelling out edition numbers (e.g., “2nd” rather than “Second”).

Ordinal numbers: Superscript “st,” “nd,” “rd,” and “th” on ordinal numbers (e.g., 21st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th).

Abbreviations: Abbreviate “edition” to “ed.” Abbreviate “revised edition” to “rev. ed.”

C.2.d. Publication information

Publisher’s name: Words such as “Books,” “Press,” “Co.,” “& Co.,” “Publishing Co.,” “Publications,” “Inc.,” “S.A.,” and “Ltd.” can be omitted from the end of a publisher’s name except in cases of a university press, the Vatican Press, or when removal of the term would leave only an adjective for a publisher’s name (e.g., Liturgical Press, Ignatius, Newman, St Vladimir’s Seminary Press, Vatican Press, Basic Books, Free Press, New Press, St Augustine’s Press).

When a publisher is named after a person, delete the first and middle names or initials (e.g., William B. Eerdmans becomes Eerdmans).

An initial “the” can be removed from a publisher’s name (e.g., The Catholic University of America becomes Catholic University of America).

Forthcoming works: When citing a work that is not yet published but has received a contract for publication, use “forthcoming” in place of the publication year, and omit page numbers from citations. If the work is accessed online, add the website information to the end of the citation, as in section G.7.

When to Omit the State after a City: States do not need to be included after major cities or well-known cities (e.g., New York, San Francisco, Chicago, Baltimore, Los Angeles) unless the city can be confused with another city by the same name. The exception is for Washington, DC. Always include “DC” after “Washington.”

Two publication cities: When two publication cities are listed in a database or on a book’s title page, use either the first one listed or the one that is geographically closer to you. Do not use both.

Co-publishers: When a book is co-published (two publisher names are listed on the title page), list only one of the two publishers—usually the one most relevant to readers.

Publication years: For journal articles, list only the year, not the season or month.

When multiple publication years are listed on a book’s title page, use the most recent one.

C.3. Sources Accessed Electronically

PDF files: When a book, essay, or journal article is available in print and the full text with page numbers and publication information is accessed as a PDF file, format the work as if it were simply a printed work. Works accessed on websites or in databases that do not meet the above requirements should add the database or website information to the end of the citation, as in sections G.6, G.7, J.2, and J.3. Note that the root URL is typically used for websites.

E-readers and Digitized Databases (e.g., Kindle, Nook, Kobo, Google Books, and iBooks):

Use chapter and section titles in place of page numbers, regardless of whether page numbers are provided, and specify the e-reader or digitized database at the end of the citation, as in section R. If available, include publication information, as in section R.

Software: Specify the software (e.g., Verbum: Logos Bible Software) at the end of the citation, as in section R. In the absence of page numbers, use chapter numbers and section titles for footnotes, as in section R.

III. SAMPLE CITATIONS

(Footnote entry [FN] followed by bibliographic entry [Bib.])

PART I: Primary Sources of Theology

A. Biblical Citations

In general, biblical references are not footnoted, but placed in parentheses after the quote.

The edition of the Bible must be indicated by its italicized abbreviation following the reference to the biblical book, chapter number, and verse number (e.g., 1Tim 3:12 NAB). Including the italicized abbreviation of the edition of the Bible is only necessary the first time the Bible is cited if the same edition is used throughout the text.

If more than one edition of the Bible is cited, the edition must be specified with each reference. In such cases, it is required to provide full bibliographical information for each version in a footnote the first time it is cited. When a note number is included for the first biblical citation, place it immediately after the period that follows the closing parenthesis on the biblical citation. See the following example: Jesus said, “Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem” (Mt 20:18 NABRE).⁵

For biblical citations that run in text, do not include a period inside the closing quotation mark of the biblical quotation; rather, place the period at the end of the sentence (usually after the closing parenthesis on the biblical citation). See the following example: Jesus said, “Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem” (Mt 20:18).

A.1. Bible citations accessed in print

FN:

¹ The Holy Bible: Revised Standard Version (New York: Collins, 1973).

Abbreviated subsequent references appear in parentheses after the biblical book, chapter, and verse numbers, as follows (Jn 1:12). Where necessary for clarification, an abbreviated form of the biblical translation cited may appear after the book, chapter, and verse number, but before the closing parenthesis, as follows (Jn 1:12 RSV).

Bib.:

The Holy Bible: Revised Standard Version. New York: Collins, 1973.

A.2. Bible citations accessed online

For the publication information (i.e., place of publication, publisher, date of publication), include only the details you can find on the Bible's website. These details will not always be available. Please note that the edition is italicized in the sample below only because it is considered part of the title (editions are not normally italicized in citations).

FN:

¹ The New American Bible, Revised Edition (Washington, DC: Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, 2011), at United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, www.usccb.org.

Abbreviated subsequent references appear in parentheses after the biblical book, chapter, and verse numbers, as follows (Jn 1:12). Where necessary for clarification, an abbreviated form of the biblical translation cited may appear after the book, chapter, and verse number, but before the closing parenthesis, as follows (Jn 1:12 NABRE).

Bib.:

A.3. Bible citations accessed on compact disc (CD)

FN:

¹ Psalms and Proverbs: New Living Translation, read by Mike Kellog (Wheaton, IL: Tyndale House, 1996), 6 compact discs.

Abbreviated subsequent references appear in parentheses after the biblical book, chapter, and verse numbers, as follows (Prov 3:1). Where necessary for clarification, an abbreviated form of the biblical translation cited may appear after the book, chapter, and verse number, but before the closing parenthesis, as follows (Prov 3:1 NLT).

If no verse number is provided on the compact disc, just cite the biblical book and chapter number, as follows (Prov 3). If no chapter number is provided on the compact disc, provide some indication, if possible, of where on the compact disc the reference may be found; references might be found according to chapter titles, as follows (Prov, Confidence in God Leads to Prosperity), or time markers, as follows (Prov, 2 min., 5 sec.).

A.4. The Vulgate

FN:

² Biblia sacra iuxta Vulgatam versionem, ed. Bonifatius Fischer et al., 3rd ed. (Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 1969).

Abbreviated subsequent references appear in parentheses after the biblical book, chapter, and verse numbers, as follows (Jn 1:12 Vulgata).

Bib.:

Biblia sacra iuxta Vulgatam versionem. Ed. Bonifatius Fischer et al. 3rd ed. Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 1969.

When citing specific chapters and verses, use the widely accepted abbreviations of biblical books recommended by the Society of Biblical Literature. Including the apocryphal or deuterocanonical books, these abbreviations are:

Gen Ex Lev Num Deut Josh Judg Ruth 1-2Sam 1-2Kgs 1-4Kgdms 1-2Chr Ezra Neh Esth Job Ps(s) Prov Eccl/Qoh Song/Cant Isa Jer Lam Ezek Dan Hos Joel Amos Obad Jonah Mic Nah Hab Zeph Hag Zech Mal Tob Jdt AddEsth WisSol Sir Bar LetJer PrAzar Sus Bel 1-4Mac 1-2Esdr 4-6Ezra EsdrA-B PrMan Odes Mt Mk Lk Jn Acts Rom 1-2Cor Gal Eph Phil Col 1-2Thes 1-2Tim Tit Phlm Heb Jas 1-2Pet 1-3Jn JudeRev

Abbreviate all biblical books mentioned in parenthetical references or footnotes. Do not abbreviate biblical books that are mentioned in the text.

Cite biblical chapter and verse numbers using Arabic numerals separated by a colon, as follows (Jn 5:8–9).

When citing multiple passages, list the abbreviated title of each distinct biblical book followed by the chapter number and colon, with all verses in that chapter separated by a comma and space. A semicolon should separate references to subsequent chapters or books. Do not include the conjunction “and” or an ampersand (&) before the last citation. List passages in canonical and numerical order.

- Right: Mt 2:3; 3:4–6; 4:3, 7; Lk 3:6, 8; 12:2, 5; Acts 15:1–5; Rom 1:8–12
- Wrong: Lk 3:6, 8; Lk 12:2

Mt 2:3, 3:4–6; 4:3; Lk 3:6, 8 and 12:2

Rom 1:8–12; Mt 2:3; 4:3, 7; 3:4–6

B. Documents of the Catholic Magisterium (Documents Issued by an Office of the Church with Teaching Authority)

The basic template for citing teaching documents of the Catholic Magisterium is author, comma, type of document (Encyclical, Apostolic Exhortation, Decree, etc.), title of document in English, title of document in Latin, date of promulgation of document in parentheses, comma, the section or paragraph number of the document. The Latin title is taken from the first words of the document, but it does not always correspond to its official title (e.g., On the Value and Inviolability of Human Life Evangelium vitae).

Next in the citation comes the publication information of the source from which the document has been cited. Documents accessed on the Vatican website do not need to include website information in footnotes or in a bibliography.

Promulgation dates must be included in first references and bibliographies. In footnotes, the section numbers must always be provided where available and indicated by the section symbol: § for one section; §§ for two or more. Do not insert a space between the section symbol and number. Page numbers, where available, should be provided only in the first reference.

Abbreviated subsequent references need only the Latin title and the appropriate section or paragraph number. In some instances, particularly with conciliar documents, the author may need to be specified in subsequent references.

When it comes to citing documents of the Magisterium, there is a preference for sources. The best option is to cite the official version of the document in its original language (usually Latin), in whatever official organ it first appeared (e.g., Acta Apostolicae Sedis). The second option is to cite some edited, translated, and printed source. In instances where printed versions of the document are not available, web sources may be used. The Vatican's web site should be prioritized over other online resources.

B.1. Magisterial documents published individually

If no Latin title is available for a document, leave the Latin title out while following the formatting below.

B.1.a. Magisterial documents accessed in print

FN:

B.1.b. Magisterial documents accessed online

If Magisterial documents are accessed on the Vatican's website (www.vatican.va), no website should be included at the end of the citation. If the document was accessed on a website other than the Vatican's, include the website at the end of the citation, as in section C.5.

B.1.c. Documents from the USCCB

Before 2001, the bishops of the U.S. acting jointly were known as the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and their documents were published by the United States Catholic Conference. Thus these titles should be used respectively for author and publisher of the bishops' documents before 2001, as the documents themselves should make clear.

B.2. Magisterial documents published in Origins, L'Osservatore Romano, Acta Apostolicae Sedis, or other journals

The section or paragraph number follows the promulgation date of the document, while the page number follows the journal's publication date in the first reference only.

B4. Papal addresses, including “Theology of the Body”

B.4.a. General Audience addresses in collections

In collections that include an editor, place the editor’s name between the book title and translator.

Michael Waldstein numbers the audiences in Pope John Paul II’s series on the “Theology of the Body” and divides each audience into paragraphs. The audience number and paragraph number are to be cited immediately before the page number, separated by a colon. In order to prevent confusion, the abbreviation p. (page) or pp. (pages) is used to indicate page numbers.

FN:

B.4.d. Papal addresses accessed online

If papal addresses are accessed on the Vatican's website (www.vatican.va), no website should be included at the end of the citation. If the document was accessed on a website other than the Vatican's, include the website at the end of the citation, as in section C.5.

B.7. Liturgical books

As a general rule, citations of liturgical texts should proceed from the specific to the general (for example, “opening prayer” is more specific than Sacramentary), followed by the publication information of the source from which the text is cited. In all citations of liturgical books, paragraph or section numbers must be specified with the section symbol § (or §§ where more than one section is referenced), and pages must be marked by “p.” or “pp.” This is to avoid confusion in light of the variety of formats in which liturgical books are published.

C. Ancient Primary Sources (Patristic, Medieval, etc.)

Ancient primary sources of theology include authors such as Ss. John Chrysostom, Basil the Great, Clement of Alexandria, Cyril of Jerusalem, Thomas Aquinas, Ambrose, Athanasius, Jerome, Augustine, etc.

When citing ancient primary sources, book numbers should always be cited in Roman numerals, followed (where available) by chapter numbers, section numbers, and line numbers, all in Arabic numerals. Not all ancient sources are divided into books. For example, epistles are not divided into books, and Basil the Great's On the Holy Spirit consists of only one book; therefore, the section and paragraph numbers are all written with Arabic numerals, and Roman numerals are absent. Following the ancient work's internal references, footnotes provide bibliographical information for the publication from which the text has been cited.

C.1. Ancient texts cited from collections

C.2. Ancient texts found in the Ancient Christian Commentary on Scripture

This text should be used as a reference rather than as a primary source. All of the translations found in it are taken from other sources that are indicated in the footnotes. Wherever possible, these sources should be pursued and cited, rather than the commentary volume itself. In such instances, the commentary should be indicated as a source in the bibliography, but not cited in a footnote.

C.6. St Thomas Aquinas's Summa theologiae, Summa contra gentiles, and other works

The Summa theologiae of St Thomas Aquinas is cited by part (I, I-II, II-II, III), question, and article. For example, ST II-II, q. 23, a. 3, ad 1 means, the second part (half) of the second part, question twenty-three, article three, reply to the first objection. "Obj." refers to an objection within an article. To cite more than one article at a time, use the abbreviation "arts" for articles, as in the following example: ST, I, q. 13, arts 5-6.

Note that the title of this work is sometimes spelled Summa theologica in older literature; this spelling should be avoided wherever possible.

Use the following abbreviations when citing the Summa theologiae:

q: Use "q" to indicate the question you are citing.

a: Use "a" to indicate the article you are citing.

ad: Use "ad" to indicate which of Aquinas's replies to an objection you are citing.

obj: Use “obj.” to indicate which of Aquinas’s objections you are citing.
respondeo: Use “respondeo” to indicate which of Aquinas’s “I answer that” sections you are citing.
sed contra: Use “sed contra” to indicate that you are citing Aquinas’s “On the contrary” section.

PART II: Primary Sources of Philosophy

When citing ancient, medieval, and modern key philosophical sources, book numbers should always be cited in Roman numerals, followed (where available) by chapter numbers, section numbers, and line numbers, all in Arabic numerals. Not all key philosophical sources are divided into books. In these cases, Roman numerals are absent. Following the work's internal references, footnotes provide bibliographical information for the publication from which the text has been cited.

J. Articles in Journals

The HACS Guidelines view a PDF file as a stable or reliable preservation of the printed version. If an article originally published in a print journal is accessed as a full text PDF, whether downloaded from a website or a database or Populi, format the source as an article in a print journal (section J.1).

Websites and databases that do not provide a full text PDF of a print journal should provide access information at the end of the citation. If the journal is published only online (i.e, the journal is not also a print journal), follow section J.2. If the journal is accessed through a database that does not provide the full text PDF, follow section J.3.

J.4. Journal article published ahead of print (an online first article) that does not include a volume and issue number

If the online first article is accessed on a website instead of in a database, the website information should be added to the end of the citation, as in section G.7.

Note that the sample below uses “et al.” because the article has more than three authors.

FN:

⁷¹ Janne M. Tullius, Marlou L. A. De Kroon, Josué Almansa et al., “Adolescents’ Mental Health Problems Increase after Parental Divorce, Not before, and Persist until Adulthood: A Longitudinal TRAILS Study,” European Child & Adolescent Psychiatry, published ahead of print, 2021.

J.5. Journal article published ahead of print (an online first article) that does include a volume and issue number

If the online first article is accessed on a website instead of in a database, the website information should be added to the end of the citation, as in section G.7.

K. Dictionary and Encyclopedia Entries

A variety of encyclopedias acceptable for scholarly use are available on the Holy Apostles library website and online. Students at Holy Apostles, therefore, should not use Wikipedia in their citations. Students also should not use The Catholic Encyclopedia available on New Advent's website (www.newadvent.org), which is now outdated. Instead, students should consult and cite the updated edition of that encyclopedia, the New Catholic Encyclopedia, 2nd edition, and its supplemental books, available on the Holy Apostles library website. Students should always consult the most updated edition of encyclopedias, dictionaries, and other works.

Often many editors contribute to an encyclopedia. The executive editor or editor-in-chief (sometimes just called "the editor") has ultimate responsibility, so you can cite his or her name, if available, when no editor is listed at the beginning or end of an entry. Check the beginning pages of the encyclopedia for a list of editors. For the New Catholic Encyclopedia, 2nd edition, click on the link to that encyclopedia on the Holy Apostles library website. Then click on Table of Contents at the top. Choose a volume number from the drop-down menu. Then click on Editorial Staff or Editorial Board. Find the Executive Editor or Editor-in-Chief.

When no author is listed, begin the citation with the title of the encyclopedia entry or dictionary entry.

K.1. Dictionaries and encyclopedias in print

The New Catholic Encyclopedia, 2nd edition, its supplemental books, and the Encyclopedia of Philosophy, 2nd edition, although accessed electronically through the Holy Apostles library website, are also available in print and should follow the following format.

FN:

⁷³ D.N. Power, "Eucharist in Contemporary Catholic Tradition," in New Catholic Encyclopedia, ed. Berard L. Marthaler, 2nd ed., vol. 5 (Detroit: Gale, 2003), 403.

Abbreviated subsequent reference:

⁷⁴ Power, "Eucharist in Tradition," 404.

Bib.:

Power, D.N. "Eucharist in Contemporary Catholic Tradition." In New Catholic Encyclopedia, ed. Berard L. Marthaler, 2nd ed., vol. 5, 401-410. Detroit: Gale, 2003.

K.2. Dictionaries and encyclopedias published exclusively online

Encyclopedias and dictionaries that have no print version but are published online only (e.g., The Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy (www.iep.utm.edu), The Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy (<http://plato.stanford.edu>), Encyclopedia Britannica (www.academic.eb.com or www.britannica.com)) should follow the following format.

FN:

⁷⁵ Emrys Westacott, "Moral Relativism," in The Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy, ed. James Fieser and Bradley Dowden, at www.iep.utm.edu.

Abbreviated subsequent reference:

⁷⁶ Westacott, "Moral Relativism."

Bib.:

Westacott, Emrys. "Moral Relativism." In The Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy, ed. James Fieser and Bradley Dowden. At www.iep.utm.edu.

K.3. Hardon's Modern Catholic Dictionary accessed online

The Fr. Hardon dictionary accessed online is unique because it is a print dictionary by Fr. Hardon, yet the year of publication is not listed. It is available from The Real Presence Association (www.therealpresence.org) or from CatholicCulture.org (www.catholicculture.org).

FN:

⁷⁵ John Hardon, "Pride," in Modern Catholic Dictionary (Bardstown, KY: Eternal Life Publications), at CatholicCulture.org, www.catholicculture.org.

Abbreviated subsequent reference:

L. Biblical Dictionaries and Commentaries

L.1. Biblical dictionaries

P. Asynchronous Social Media: Websites; Blog Posts, Podcasts, and Webinars; Comments on Blogs; Twitter; Videos from YouTube and Other Websites; Film, Audio, and Musical Recordings; Sources Cited from CD-ROM

P.1. Websites

For websites, use the date of publication, if available, and not the date accessed. If no date is available, omit the date element. If no author is listed, begin the citation with the article title. Use the root URL, not the full web address.

Include the word “at” before the website address when a date or other information comes between the website name and website address. If only the website name and address are used, include “at” before the website name but not before the website address.

Q.2. Unpublished academic papers or conference presentations

Academic papers or conference presentations published in books or journals should follow the formatting for essays and journal articles in sections H and J. Unpublished papers or presentations should follow the following format.

Bib.:

White, Thomas Joseph. “Thomism after Vatican II.” Paper presented at the Dominicans and the Renewal of Thomism Conference, Washington, DC, 1 July 2013. At www.op.org.

Q.3. PowerPoint presentations

Generally, the font for PowerPoint slides should just be large enough that everyone can see clearly on the projection screen. You don’t want viewers to squint because the font is so small; font sizes (and even colors) can vary for creativity purposes, but be sure everyone can see. See section S.2 on Citing an image in PowerPoint.

R. Works Read through E-Readers, Digitized Databases, and Software (e.g., Kindle, Nook, Kobo, Google Books, iBooks, Verbum: Logos Bible Software, Internet Archive)

Books obtained through the EBSCOhost eBook Academic Collection on the Holy Apostles library website should follow the formatting for print books in section G above.

While reading works through e-readers, digitized databases, and software is acceptable, the formats they provide can lack accurate pagination and other bibliographical details. Whenever possible, then, find a printed edition of the work to cite in papers and theses. If printed editions are unavailable, use the following example, including publication information whenever available. Use a chapter number (and a section title, if available) in place of page numbers for footnotes, regardless of whether page numbers are included through the e-reader, digitized database, or software. Specify the e-reader, digitized database, or software at the end of the citation.

S. Images

The following are the basic elements for citing an image:

- Name of photographer, owner, artist, creator of the image, if available,
- “Title of the Image,” if available,
- Image Type, i.e. photograph, print, painting, cartoon, graph, table, figure, map,
- Date image was produced, if available,
- URL of the image (root address for papers; entire URL for PowerPoint presentations).

Please note: For images found in Google Images, or similar sources, you must locate the original source of the image and present the URL address from that original source, rather than present the URL address of the image located in the Google Images site.

S.1. Citing an image in Papers and in Populi discussion posts

FN:

⁹⁹ Mário Novais, “Retábulo de São Miguel,” photograph, 1954, <http://www.flickr.com/>.

Jordaens, Jacob. "The Four Fathers of the Latin Church," painting, <http://www.jacobjordaens.org>.

S.2. Citing an image in PowerPoint

When placing images in PowerPoint presentations, citing simply the URL to an image is not sufficient. You must use the basic elements for citing an image to provide as full a citation as possible. Also, you must cite the entire URL, rather than using the root web address as for your papers. Finally, do not place the citation in a footnote on the slide. Rather, simply place the citation info (no footnote number) directly under the image on the slide. If you use small font, the citation shouldn't distract from the rest of the text on the slide.

T. News articles

Editorials that do not have an author or article title can use the word "Editorial" in place of the author and article title at the beginning of the citation. The newspaper title will then immediately follow the word "Editorial."

Letters to the editor that do not have an article title can use "letter to the editor" (without quotation marks or italics) in place of the article title.

When a newspaper does not include its city of publication in the newspaper title, add the city in parentheses after the title. The state (or province/country, for non-U.S. newspapers) may also be added when needed to help readers identify where the newspaper was published. When including the state, use the two-letter state abbreviation. Citations for well-known national newspapers do not need to include a city or state.

When articles accessed online include a publication time, insert the time after the date. If the time zone is not listed on the article, include the time zone based on the location of the publication city.

When multiple editions of a newspaper are published, the edition may be included after the publication date (or after the time, if the time is included).

If the newspaper includes multiple sections, a section number (e.g., sec. 4) or section title (e.g., Local News) may be included after the publication date and time (or after the edition, if edition information is included).

U. Citing original sources through a secondary source

Authors should always try to cite from original sources since authors should examine sources before citing them. Authors should verify the accuracy of quotations by checking the original source.

Before citing an original source through a secondary source, authors should first search online and consult the librarian for assistance in obtaining the original source of the quote. Only after having searched for the original source and discovering the source is out of print or unattainable should authors cite an original source through a secondary source.

If an original source truly is unattainable, cite both sources in a footnote according to the sample citations found throughout the HACS Guidelines above, and separate the two sources with the words “quoted in.”

If the quote happens to contain original ideas from the secondary source too, add another citation for the secondary source in the same footnote.

U.1. Journal article quoted in a book

The following sample citations are for a journal article that was quoted in a book. Notice how the journal article follows the sample citations found in section J.1 on the HACS Guidelines, and the book with one author follows the sample citations found in section G.1 on the HACS Guidelines. The journal article and book are separated with the words “quoted in.”

U.2. Book quoted in a book

The following sample citations are for a book that was quoted in a book. Notice how both books follow the sample citations found in section G on the HACS Guidelines. The first book is separated from the second book with the words “quoted in.”

W. Citing Sources Not Found on the Holy Apostles Guidelines for Academic and Professional Papers and M.A. Theses

For sources not found on the Holy Apostles Guidelines for Academic and Professional Papers and M.A. Theses, students should make their best judgment about how to cite them based on what they know about formatting from other citations on the Guidelines and based on what details they think their readers need to see. The goal in this situation should simply be to provide citation formatting that is clear for readers (i.e., they can look at the source and identify what type of source it is and have enough details to find the source on their own) and maintain consistency throughout the citations.

Appendix D: Citing a Personal Summary versus a Direct Quote from an Author

The HACS Guidelines for Academic and Professional Papers and M.A. Theses are designed for students to follow for proper citation formatting. In many instances, students will include direct quotations from an author's work within their papers. These direct quotations should always be cited with a footnote and a bibliography citation (exceptions for biblical citations are noted elsewhere in these Guidelines).

Students are also encouraged to read, absorb, and summarize the works they read and to avoid an overabundance of direct quotations. Students should include within their text summary both the name of the author and the title of the work to credit the author. This crediting of the author should also include both a footnote and a bibliography citation created in accordance with the HACS Guidelines.
